Granting permission to bring green leaves from kans for manure.

Mr. BhaskaraRao.

Summary of discussion.—Portions of Soppinabettas assigned for the use of the gardens in the malnad are rocky and trees do not grow thereon. In the rainy season, leaf will be wanted for manure. In summer it will suffice if the required quantity of leaf be procured for covering the manure put in the garden. If soppu (leaves) is removed from Soppinabettas every year the trees will disappear. It has been the practice from time immemorial to bring green leaf from the nearest kans for manure. But the Government authorities now object to this. It is therefore requested that this restriction may be removed. Permission may also be granted to bring dry wood from the kans which will otherwise be allowed to lie in the kans and become unfit for use. Permission may be granted for selling timber in occupied kans to the holders of such kans on levy of the cost thereof. If the timber be sold in a public auction, the khatedars will suffer much loss.
